I. INTRODUCTION

BACKGROUND AND STRATEGIC GOAL

Since it was established, the RCC has worked to develop and maintain a climate of dialogue, tolerance and openness towards cooperation throughout the SEE region and among its participants, promoting the European and Euro-Atlantic aspirations of its participants and supporting the reforms related to their preparation for EU accession.

In line with the statutory mandate and the evolving regional challenges, operating under the political umbrella of the South East European Cooperation Process (SEECP), the first and the second triennial strategies and work programmes have guided the work of RCC in developing and supporting the implementation of regional programmes to address the needs of South East European governments in the areas of economic and social development, energy and infrastructure, justice and home affairs, security cooperation, and in building institutional and human capital. Over the eight years of its operation, RCC has worked very closely with all the governments in the region and with the relevant regional cooperation mechanisms, achieving tangible results. In time, RCC's agenda has shifted considerably from networking and convening in a wide number of themes to more focused and result-oriented interventions in a restricted number of intervention areas. This shift was particularly evident in the previous three-year period covered by the RCC's Strategy and Work Programme 2014-2016, where a strong focus was put on supporting economic cooperation and development in the region through the SEE 2020 Strategy and strengthening cooperation on Justice and Home Affairs issues.

The RCC Strategy and Work Programme 2017-2019 (SWP 2017-2019 or Strategy) defines the principles of operation, the priority areas of interventions and the goals to be achieved in the coming three years. It is based on a thorough analysis of the realities and the present challenges in SEE, on the progress made so far in the European integration process of the RCC participants, the agreed regional priorities and on the common goal to advance these processes.

The SWP 2017-2019 has been developed in close consultation and cooperation with the governments in the region. RCC Secretariat consulted other stakeholders in the process, such as the private sector representatives, relevant regional cooperation mechanisms engaged in the implementation of the priority areas of this Strategy, along with the European Commission as one of the key contributors to the development efforts in the region.

Over the next three years, RCC will work to reduce – and where possible remove – the obstacles to increased mobility, enhanced connectivity and improved competitiveness in SEE, while also contributing to better governance, improved functioning of the rule of law and enhanced security in the region.

RCC will continue to engage with all participants from SEE, guided by the South East Europe Cooperation Process, in order to ensure broad geographical scope of cooperation.

THE IMPLEMENTATION OF SWP 2014-2016, SUMMARY OF ACHIEVEMENTS AND LESSONS LEARNED

The statutory practice of developing triennial strategies and work programmes has enabled the RCC to increase its capacity to influence policy through a coherent and holistic coordination, guidance and monitoring at the regional level. The implementation of RCC's previous SWP in particular marked a new phase. The new structure employed, combined with adequate resources to execute its mandate increased the capabilities of the RCC substantially making it more efficient and robust in carrying out its activities. The interventions were better calibrated, with more far-reaching and result-oriented actions backed up by a clear mandate. Through improved coordination, RCC was able to combine resources with other regional organisations and structures thus leveraging its interventions and amplifying impact. Above all, regional ownership, regional responsibility and all-inclusiveness have served as pillars for the RCC in its mission to develop regional cooperation into a process that promotes and supports reforms.

The overall implementation of the SWP 2014-2016 can be considered a success, but the performance across the priority areas has been uneven. In those priority areas that were well mandated and resourced, the pace of implementation was satisfactory and the targets have been successfully achieved. This was not always the case.

Implementation of the SEE 2020

The SEE 2020 Strategy has advanced on most fronts. The implementation of this ambitious agenda, that has served as one of the main anchors of the previous SWP 2014-16, has continued to rely on the political commitments, socio-economic developments in the economies concerned (and in the EU), maturity of regional cooperation in different policy areas and the funding realities.

- Trade and investment integration of the region is steadily increasing. A full liberalisation of trade in goods and agricultural products has been achieved, and an agreement was reached on accompanying measures to open markets and remove barriers. Negotiations on liberalisation of trade in business and professional services have commenced during 2015, backed up by RCC-led process on enabling mobility of professionals. Furthermore, RCC's work on investment policy commenced during the previous period is expected to yield tangible results in coordinating investment policy in terms of investor entry, protections and transparency, with the expected support from the World Bank and the EU. If implemented in full, this trade and investment agenda will result in a significantly improved business climate and a more integrated regional market with stronger links with the EU – all an integral part of the Integrated Growth pillar of the SEE 2020 Strategy.
- Efforts to add value through better education, innovation and increased productivity still fledgling. Within the Smart Growth pillar, RCC continued to provide technical and administrative support in several dimensions to ensure that the momentum of designing and implementing SEE 2020-related work programmes is maintained. Developments in this area include the formal establishment of the regional R&D centre for innovation (WISE) to coordinate the implementation of the regional R&D for innovation strategy<sup>1</sup> and the Education Reform Initiative for South East Europe (ERI SEE) that are expected to become operational by the time SWP 2017-2019 is under implementation. RCC also successfully completed the Ljubljana Process II project, a EUR 1.3 million EU-funded initiative, helping rehabilitate cultural heritage in the region, and, among other, developing management plans for 6 sites, 17 preliminary technical assessments, feasibility studies and business plans, establishing networks of experts and training more than 300 people in fundraising and business planning, application of integrated methodology and conservation.

- Full political backing for infrastructure development has been coupled with initial resources. Key elements of the Strategy relating to Sustainable Growth have secured support from the Prime Ministers of Western Balkans economies and several EU Member States in Berlin in August 2014. These include an agreement on a regional core transport network in line with the EU recommendations and connecting the Western Balkans to the existing EU transport corridors (Mediterranean, Orient-East and Rhine-Danube). Priority transport projects along these corridors were identified, as were those in the energy sector facilitating integration of power systems, coupling these agreements with a funding commitment on the EU side. RCC's work on multi-modal transport<sup>2</sup> and strengthening links between the Western Balkans and its neighbours<sup>3</sup> is complementing the infrastructure connectivity agenda with an adequate policy response to be further developed by upgrading the existing transport corridors into economic corridors. Here, RCC sees strong potential for full involvement of all SEE participants.
- ...while a strong continued focus on employment and mobility generated new initiatives. Extensive analysis developed by RCC in the area of employment<sup>4</sup>, under the Inclusive Growth pillar, resulted in the establishment of structures necessary to advance the agreed regional mobility agenda (such as the Joint Working Group on the Recognition of Professional Qualifications) over the next three years and has set the stage for RCC's implementation of the Employment and Social Affairs Platform, a three year EU-funded action focused on improving employment policies and enhancing capacities of the Public Employment Services to implement employment measures.
- Regional governance and coordination architecture of SEE 2020 has been completed. At the regional level, the establishment and operationalisation of the SEE 2020 Governing Board (composed of Ministers in charge of EU Integration), and the Programming Committee (NIPAC offices and SEE 2020 Coordinators) and Monitoring Committees (Statistical offices and SEE 2020 National Coordinators) over the past three years are particularly noteworthy. All participants and other key stakeholders are represented on these structures and have committed to their "modus operandi". This progress means that SEE 2020 is implemented as a well-managed, timely and goal-oriented process; aligned with the participating economies' national and international commitments and priorities; that progress can be regularly measured; and policies adjusted by participants as required by the dynamic operating environment. Advances have also been made in terms of strengthening the coordination and cooperation mechanisms at pillar and dimension level. Virtually all Regional Dimension Coordinators have ensured that the SEE 2020 objectives are firmly embedded in their structures and work programmes. This allows for a seamless approach between the achieving the specific goals of individual agreements (such as CEFTA, Energy Community, SEETO, etc.) and the SEE 2020 objectives. In other cases such as Environment or Justice, the SEE 2020 is providing an impetus for both national administrations and relevant organisations to develop more comprehensive and integrated regional cooperation structures to address various cross-cutting policies that comprise those dimensions.

- ...but additional efforts will be needed to support intra-governmental coordination. Information on activities and commitments taken within various regional structures are in some instances not communicated in a structured way through proper channels to enable full oversight by the SEE 2020 National Coordinators. RCC will be working with the SEE 2020 governments to identify possible areas of assistance and streamlining to strengthen this coordination. This could potentially be linked to other needs for intra-governmental coordination, such as the development of Economic Reform Programmes in areas relevant for SEE 2020.
- Securing sufficient funding for the implementation of the SEE 2020 has proved challenging. In some areas, the restructuring of existing regional structures and/or the creation of new regional structures has encountered a number of obstacles, including financial ones. In all cases, RCC has provided technical and administrative support to ensure that the momentum of designing and implementing SEE 2020-related work programmes is maintained. However, such interim support has limitations in terms of longer term sustainability and will need to be addressed through a more comprehensive approach. The SEE governments are also, in most cases, experiencing an extended period of fiscal consolidation, limiting the scope for their intervention. Development partners could partially alleviate some of these constraints and RCC has initiated a donor coordination process with the objective of establishing a structured dialogue with the donor community as part of the annual SEE 2020 programming exercise. The scope of this coordination is limited to regional donor interventions and is structured along the lines of SEE 2020 implementation. A donor coordination database has also been developed to assist in increasing transparency and enhancing coordination of donor interventions<sup>5</sup>.
- A wealth of research and analysis has become available to policy-makers and development partners and should be put to good use. Innovative work has been carried out under the auspices of RCC to assess public opinion and business sentiments (citizens and business community) on SEE 2020-related issues resulting in the Balkan Barometer published in 2015 and 2016<sup>6</sup>. In addition, targeted studies on priority policy areas have been carried out in virtually every pillar. The up-to-date data and information include assessments of the national policy and legislative frameworks; the degree of alignment with EU and/or international standards; mapping of the main actors – national, regional and international involved in a sector; and stocktaking of the current active programmes and projects. Efforts have also been made to ensure that this data is widely available including an extensive series of in-country presentations and formal circulation of reports to national administrations. This has been complemented by the establishment of comprehensive databases and web-based tools now available in user-friendly formats on websites – good examples included RCC’s SEEDS platform<sup>7</sup>, CEFTA’s

Transparency Pack<sup>8</sup> or ECS's Monitoring Reports on Energy Soft Measures Implementation<sup>9</sup>. This Strategy also envisions increasing the capabilities of the RCC to collect and analyse data and provide necessary evidence for policy making in the priority areas.

- Maturity of regional cooperation has been a strong determinant of implementation success. In those dimensions where multilateral cooperation is based on a clear mandate coordinated by well-resourced regional mechanisms with adequate governance structures (those able to secure political commitments and track progress being made), the implementation of SEE 2020 actions has gone well. Learning from this experience, this SWP outlines several regional instruments in the three thematic areas of SEE 2020 implementation (mobility, connectivity and competitiveness) that should alleviate some of the shortcomings faced in the previous period, including setting of clear mandates with strong political support, in some cases backed up by a sound legal basis.

Governance, rule of law and security cooperation

- Governance for Growth interventions were limited to reforms impacting business environment. On the governance side, RCC has engaged in three main areas of intervention – effective public service, anti-corruption and justice. The RCC has backed the public administration and decentralisation reform efforts of the relevant regional cooperation mechanisms (ReSPA and NALAS) through technical support and the baseline report on the regulatory framework that, when finalised and published, will help the interested economies to establish competitiveness proofing of legislation and boost employment. It has also continued the process aimed at establishing the decentralisation observatory. In the fight against corruption, the RCC has joined efforts with RAI in producing the comparative studies and recommended methodologies on anti-corruption assessment of legislation<sup>10</sup>, on corruption risk assessment in public institutions<sup>11</sup>, and on the protection of whistle-blowers<sup>12</sup>, the latest as a contribution to increasing public awareness on corruption related issues, as well as closer involvement of the civil society and the wider public. Given the resource and capacity constraints, RCC limited the scope of these regional interventions to those that hold most potential to improve the environment for doing business.
- ...and structured cooperation on judicial matters has been put in place. RCC has intervened to fill the absence of a regional cooperation mechanism between the judiciaries by setting-up, managing and supporting the operation of the regional Working Group on Justice. This working group has coordinated preparation of three studies on the efficiency of justice systems in the region<sup>13</sup>, it has established the SEE Network of the Judicial Training Institutions (to aid the institutional capacity development efforts) and the SEE Network of the Associations of Mediators (to provide for alternative dispute resolution mechanisms, complementing and sometimes replacing lengthy court procedures). In the final phase of development is also an assessment on the training needs of judiciaries in the region<sup>14</sup>.

- On Home Affairs, RCC's efforts focused on identifying gaps and streamlining interventions. With regard to Home Affairs, the RCC has revisited some of the objectives set out in the SWP 2014-2016 while continuing its support to the specialised regional cooperation mechanisms active in this area. The RCC has also prepared the gap analysis report on regional cooperation in the area of migration management and the fight against serious and organised crime to define future RCC's engagement in these matters, as well as to help streamline the work of all regional actors involved<sup>15</sup>.
- Support to the existing security cooperation mechanisms has been extended. RCC continued to support the existing regional cooperation mechanisms, in particular SEEMIC and SEENSA that have become self-sustainable and results-oriented regional cooperation platforms, thus contributing to building mutual confidence and practical cooperation in addressing the existing security challenges in SEE region.
- ...but emerging security challenges are being addressed as well. A significant part of the RCC's work in security policy area was devoted to developing the Regional Platform for Countering Radicalisation and Violent Extremism Leading to Terrorism and Foreign Terrorist Fighters in SEE (SEE Regional CVE-FTF Platform) and the establishment of the relevant national focal points group. Under the political umbrella of the SEECF, the platform is aimed at strengthening coordination and cooperation on countering radicalisation and violent extremism in SEE at national and regional levels.

Political and other supporting activities

- All-inclusiveness remains the basic tenet of regional cooperation. A greater openness towards all-inclusiveness and regional responsibility is making RCC's mission a lot easier to pursue. The all-inclusive character of RCC enabled the entire region to benefit from and contribute to the regional cooperation process. This has also created a positive regional context in which some of the other regional organisations and initiatives became all-inclusive.
- RCC has become better positioned in its dialogue with the EU institutions to actively promote integration of the region into the EU. The RCC has increasingly been recognised for its capacity to contribute to high-level political processes launched within the region. More specifically, the RCC was tasked by the RCC Board to engage in those themes of the Berlin Process that are within its mandate.

- Coordination with the SEECP Chairmanship-in-Office was greatly improved. The RCC also capitalised on its role as the operational arm of the all-inclusive SEECP to ensure that its activities are aligned with the programmes of the SEECP participants holding the SEECP Chairmanship-in-Office (CiO) and serve the collective interests of all participants from SEE region. A strengthened cooperation within the parliamentary dimension of SEECP resulted in the establishment of the SEECP Parliamentary Assembly.
- Media development and media freedom featured high on the SEE's agenda. RCC has joined efforts with other international partners and has provided some support to media development in the region aiming to improve professional standards and also to help address issues related to the right to information, the independence of media and media freedom. There is a shared agreement by the European Commission and the OSCE Representative for Freedom of the Media on a worrying deterioration of media freedoms and professionalism throughout the region. Consequently, RCC has worked with the media and civil society organisations in SEE to draft recommendations as a basis for stepping-up its interventions and to propose the modalities of cooperation with other partners in helping address these challenges.
- Civil society organisations have been partaking in RCC activities, but a more structured cooperation might be necessary. While civil society organisations have participated in different areas of RCC activities in the previous period (such as those relating to education, employment, culture, digital society, anti-corruption and others), there is a growing need to establish a more structured regional dialogue. First steps in this direction were made during 2015-2016 with the Western Balkans Summit in Vienna, where RCC had an important role in involving civil society organisations, and with the follow-up events organised by RCC in Brussels and Sarajevo to help define the agenda and present the CSOs to other stakeholders. During the next three years, RCC intends to set up a structured consultative process with the CSOs, especially in those areas where reform requires a wide-ranging buy-in not only of the governments and the private sector, but also of societies as a whole.

THE CONTEXT FOR SWP 2017-2019

RCC's Strategy and Work Programme 2017-19 is being put forward in a significantly changed setting compared to the 2014-16 period. Several notable developments affecting the political and socio-economic environment have materialised, profoundly altering the context in which the Strategy takes place.

- European Union integration remains a strategic goal for the SEE region, but the enlargement approach has changed. The EU's enlargement package of October 2014 heralded a move away from a heavy focus on acquis transposition and a greater emphasis on fundamentals such as economic governance, rule of law and public administration reform. The approach to accession that has emerged since has placed a strong focus on ensuring the economic viability and securing long-term socio-economic growth through the sustainable implementation of EU compliant policies and regulations. The 2015 enlargement package further reinforced this focus on fundamentals. This policy shift is fully in line with SEE 2020's holistic integrated approach across the 5 pillars as illustrated also in the clear link between the Economic Reform Programmes (ERPs) and the SEE 2020 measures and targets. Given the alignment of SEE 2020 with the economic governance priorities, at its meeting on 21 May 2015 the SEE 2020 Governing Board endorsed the proposal to substitute the SEE 2020 National Action Plans with the ERPs as the main tool for implementation of SEE 2020 priorities in the national context.

- Strong focus on regional cooperation has been maintained, with new high-level political initiatives emerging. Following the conclusions and recommendations of the EU Enlargement Strategy over the years, the importance of regional cooperation as an EU membership precondition has remained unchanged. A key role in guiding and consolidating regional cooperation is played by a) the SEECP, as a regionally-owned and governed political forum in SEE; b) the RCC, as the operational arm of the SEECP and the main regional coordination mechanism; and c) regional organisations, initiatives and networks with specific expertise, to take the lead in different areas of common interests for the RCC participants. However, several high-level political initiatives focused on the Western Balkans have emerged and are increasing the dynamics of the regional cooperation process and boosting the EU integration process of the Western Balkans.
- Expanding the scale and geographic scope of interventions is becoming fundamental. The institutional relationship of the RCC participants from the SEE with the EU ranges from already EU Member States, candidates, potential candidates, and others whose European aspirations are pursued within a different EU institutional framework. The EU enlargement economies in SEE have largely been the focus of RCC interventions in the past, given the constraints put forward by funding sources, the strong focus on EU enlargement/accession, and limited opportunities for SEE participants (particularly EU Member States) to engage in those policy areas that are an integral part of the EU acquis. However, the size of this narrower region and the scope of interventions limited to only these economies will not be sufficient to achieve the overall development goals. Scaling-up of these interventions to include other SEE participants is necessary, and this SWP provides concrete openings for all participants to take an even greater part in the actions, by promoting better connectivity (particularly on economic corridors, via the EU TEN-T network that now extends into the Western Balkans), increased competitiveness and business opportunities (such as B2B events, clustering and joint private sector initiatives), and enhanced mobility (such as automatic recognition standards). Fight against corruption, fight against organised and serious crime, as well as the security area remain the core of joint activities. The widened geographical scope of regional cooperation is ensured also by those regional mechanism whose membership/participatory scheme covers RCC participants from the region (such as CEFTA, Energy Community, E-SEE, SEEIC, WISE, RAI, SEEHN, ERI SEE, SEEMIC, SEENSA, SEDM, SEESAC, RACVIAC and others).
- ...and can be supported by the two EU macro-regional strategies that put South East Europe in their intersection. The EU Strategy for the Danube Region (EUSDR) and the EU Strategy for the Adriatic and Ionian Region (EUSAIR) were endorsed with a differing geographical scope but with a common ambition - higher and more sustainable growth, prosperous societies, and greater integration - fully compliant with RCC's own mission and goals. The intersection of varied geographical scope and the converging objectives of EUSDR, EUSAIR and SEE 2020 with those of RCC provide an opportunity for coordination and better cooperation with the all-inclusive RCC. In light of the importance of the macro-regional approach for EU enlargement, RCC is developing some synergistic approaches to the EUSDR, EUSAIR and SEE 2020 implementation that promote full participation of the entire SEE.

- Economic and fiscal conditions call for clear prioritisation to support fledgling growth. Even though growth has been picking up in the region during 2015 (with expectations that the Western Balkans will see some 1.8 per cent GDP growth in 2015), the (compounded, weighted) average growth rate of the Western Balkans in the previous four years has been close to zero, with some notable differences among individual economies. The labour markets are the least functional with persistently high unemployment and low employment and activity rates predominantly among the young who, along with the vulnerable groups, seem to be particularly disadvantaged. The slow recovery witnessed in recent period has barely affected this - only two economies have recorded employment rates at or above pre-crisis 2008 level. Corporate and banking sectors are still affected by high levels of non-performing loans, reflected in liquidity and solvency problems. All the Western Balkans economies face significant challenges in terms of economic governance and competitiveness, as confirmed in the assessment of the European Commission's Enlargement Strategy. Finally, fiscal deficit stands at approximately 4 per cent on average in the Western Balkans region. This setting requires a clear prioritisation of measures from the governments.
- ...and the introduction of economic governance providing a welcome tool for doing this. Steps on prioritisation have already been taken with the development of Economic Reform Programmes in each of the economies, with prioritisation of measures in the medium term. For RCC's actions, the introduction of the economic governance pillar of the EU Enlargement Strategy and the ERP as its main instrument has enabled an enhanced overview and better understanding of national priorities and measures stemming from these priorities. With the decision of the SEE 2020 Governing Board to replace the National Action Plans for SEE 2020 implementation originally envisioned in the SEE 2020 with ERPs, the Economic Reform Programmes have become the main reference documents for SEE 2020 implementation. The ERPs, along with the ECOFIN Council conclusions outlining the priorities for the Western Balkans economies, are thus serving as a basis when checking the coherence of regional approaches with the needs and priorities identified at the national level.
- Along with economic governance, the rule of law and public administration reform top the region's agenda. All the enlargement economies of SEE region face major challenges with respect to the rule of law. Although the legal frameworks in these economies are generally adequate – thanks to the process of approximation of legislation over the years – shortcomings are evident in their enforcement. Judicial systems are not efficient enough, while crime and corruption present a serious challenge in all enlargement economies. On the other hand, public administration reforms implemented up to now have helped start building the necessary administrative capacity and reduced politicisation and lack of transparency in the public institutions. Still, there is general agreement that these reforms should be accelerated and deepened in order to achieve the desired results. Although there are a number of specialised instruments and institutions better positioned to address the key issues in these areas, RCC can still provide a welcome context and link the efforts being done in these fields with other priority areas of the region, such as increased competitiveness, better business environment, confidence building, etc. Coordinating role of the RCC here becomes instrumental in streamlining the interventions, identifying gaps and channelling actions to those areas that hold most potential in yielding lasting impact.

- Last, but not the least: availability of funding is reduced and the allocation priorities have shifted. The availability of adequate financial resources to prepare and implement the regional actions is a significant constraint on the implementation of the SWP and SEE 2020 as one of its main components. The funding gap identified in the SEE 2020 programming process for the period 2016-18 stands at roughly 50% of the entire indicated EUR 48 million needed for implementation<sup>16</sup>. The EU's IPA remains one of the most important sources of funding for policy development assistance and capacity building in all of the SEE economies. It is particularly relevant for SEE 2020 as it has the capacity to finance regional programmes as well as national ones. However, with the recent developments in the neighbourhood area and the migration crisis, the funding priorities have been changing rapidly throughout the past two years, leaving less available resources for the implementation of growth and competitiveness-related actions in the Western Balkans. One important exception to this has been the 'connectivity agenda' where sizeable allocations were made by the EU to contribute towards closer transport and energy integration of the Western Balkans, mostly through the Western Balkans Investment Framework (WBIF)<sup>17</sup>. While a stronger focus on fewer sectors with sound political backing is bound to generate enhanced impact, the shift has also depleted potential resources for other parts of the SEE 2020 agenda. This is also evident at the national level as reflected in the ERPs produced during 2015, where a large majority of resources has been allocated to the sectors covered by the so-called 'connectivity agenda'. The availability and allocation of funding was one of the key considerations in developing this SWP.

II. RCC STRATEGY 2017 – 2019

The overarching goal of RCC's interventions over the next three years is greater economic integration through easier flow of capital, people, goods and services within the SEE and between the SEE and the EU. RCC also intends to contribute to better governance, improved functioning of the rule of law and enhanced security in South East Europe.

RCC will implement the SWP 2017-2019 through grouping its efforts along three axes, with the following specific objectives:

A. Implementing SEE 2020 Strategy through flagship approach

The RCC will implement the SEE 2020 Strategy component of the SWP 2017-2019 through integrating the efforts of different stakeholders in three themes, or "flagship initiatives". This approach will enable interventions with a wider-ranging impact across several dimensions and policy areas, focused on reducing – and where possible removing – obstacles to mobility, connectivity and competitiveness in SEE.

A.1. The "Skills and Mobility" flagship aims to remove obstacles for mobility of professionals and facilitate liberalisation of services within the SEE region through mutual recognition agreements, increase mobility of people in the SEE region across the board by developing standards and procedures for automatic recognition, and build capacity to address select labour markets shortcomings.

A.2. The “Connectivity” flagship will promote a better integrated, economically dynamic region through closer transport and trade integration in functioning economic corridors, increased interoperability of ICT services and reduced roaming charges across the region.

A.3. The “Competitiveness” flagship aims to improve industrial structures and business/investment environment through a more coordinated investment policy and promotion, with the intention of producing a regional instrument in the area of investment.

B. Governance, rule of law and security cooperation

B.1. The specific objectives of the RCC in this area are to promote simpler and more business-friendly legislation, improve effectiveness and transparency of governmental services and judiciary, strengthen legal and practical protection of whistleblowers and introduce and reinforce a regional instrument on data exchange in asset disclosure and conflict of interest.

B.2. In the security area, the main expected result is improvement of coordination and cooperation at national and regional level, identifying and addressing gaps and overlaps in regional actions to alleviate main security threats and challenges in the region, which are coming almost exclusively from non-state actors.

C. Horizontal and supporting activities

C.1. Within this area of action, RCC’s objective is to strengthen and deepen regional cooperation and partnership among all participants from SEE and other stakeholders, including the civil society, private sector, academia, media and others. Specific initiatives, such as the Roma Integration 2020, aiming to link Roma Strategies and National Action Plans on Roma to the socio-economic policies of individual governments in SEE, will be carried out within this area of RCC’s work.

APPROACH TO IMPLEMENTATION

The SWP 2017-2019 remains largely on the course set in the previous Strategy and Work Programme. It builds on the experience gathered during the SWP 2014-2016 implementation, the lessons learned and the current realities in South East Europe. However, the approach to implementation will undergo significant changes.

While the priorities are mainly the same as in the previous period, RCC will adopt a more focused, better integrated and even more result-oriented approach to implementation. RCC intends to intervene in a smaller number of fields to concentrate most resources around several key results expected at the end of the period (such as mutual recognition of qualifications to boost mobility, or decreasing the roaming charges to promote connectivity). Partnerships with other regional organisations and development partners around these result areas have already been established and will be crucial in leveraging each other’s resources. In addition to maximising the impact of its interventions, this approach also acknowledges the growing funding constraints in several areas of sectoral cooperation.

The approach laid out in this Strategy relies on longer-term, structured political processes intended to result in binding multilateral – or networks of bilateral – agreements. These instruments will be designed to introduce, foster and maintain political support for reform at the national level. This should relieve some of the risks identified in the previous period relating to shifting political priorities and wavering support when it comes to implementing regional agreements in the national context.

Narrowing the intervention scope to a handful of expected results opens up numerous possibilities to scale up the geographical scope of activities. The efforts to boost competitiveness and economic development of the region will likely fall short of their ambition unless all RCC participants are more directly involved. The size of the Western Balkans market, even fully integrated, does not offer the economies of scale necessary to make the development leap needed. However, the broader SEE region, with its 130 million citizens residing in both EU and non-EU members, represents a much more conducive environment for designing and implementing interventions in trade, investment, transport, energy, industrial development and other policy areas. With its strong focus on mobility, connectivity and competitiveness, the SWP 2017-19 offers clear interfaces between all RCC participants to join in the efforts. Shared challenges when it comes to governance, rule of law or security issues make the approach even more pertinent.

A. IMPLEMENTING SEE 2020 STRATEGY THROUGH FLAGSHIP APPROACH

Based on the experiences from the first three years of implementation, the RCC is adjusting its approach towards implementation and coordination of the SEE 2020 Strategy. To avoid fragmentation of actions, address the constrained resources and manage the changing political priorities, RCC intends to continue implementing the SEE 2020 Strategy by merging the efforts of different stakeholders towards a single set of objectives organised in themes – or “flagship initiatives”. These flagships represent joint endeavours by several regional organisations, implementing partners and beneficiaries, executing mutually reinforcing activities towards the same goals.

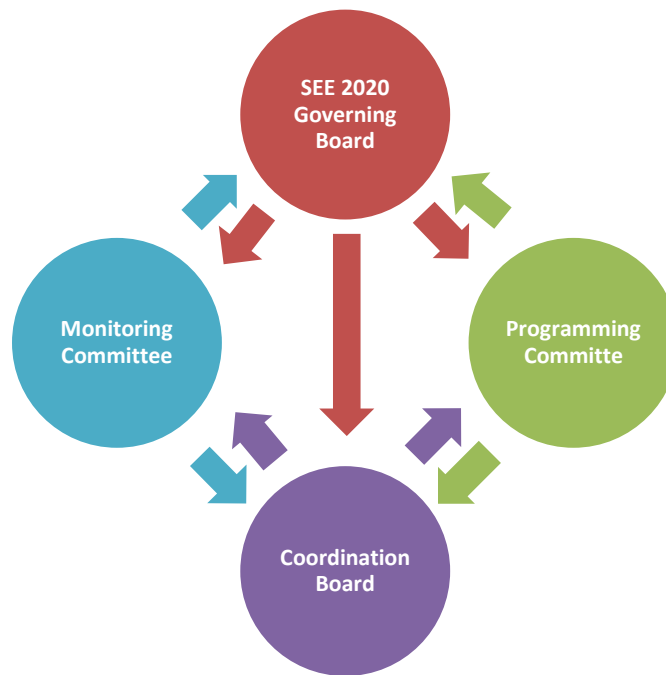

While maintaining the same objectives and areas of intervention, RCC is focusing on those fields where considerable progress can be made in the next three years. The flagship initiatives will enable and incentivise different regional structures and national institutions to design interventions that allow for a wider-ranging impact across several growth pillars and policy areas. This focused approach will address some of the main areas of constraint identified during the first phase of implementation of SEE 2020 (Figure 1).

The actions under these flagships have been identified and will be implemented through the existing structured programming, coordinating and monitoring processes with the governments of the region and in close cooperation with the respective Regional Dimension Coordinators and other stakeholders, private sector in particular. From the conceptual stage throughout to their implementation and monitoring, these processes are run by the SEE 2020 Governing Board, the SEE 2020 Programming Committee, the SEE 2020 Monitoring Committee and the SEE 2020 Coordination Board, all consisting of appointed high-level officials from the governments and other institutions of SEE economies covered by the SEE 2020 Strategy, representatives of regional organisations coordinating different policy areas (Regional Dimension Coordinators) and of representatives of the RCC Secretariat (Figure 2).

- The SEE 2020 Governing Board is entrusted with the overall governance of SEE 2020 implementation reviewing progress being made through the adoption of the Annual Report on Implementation, and issuance of overall policy guidance to all actors involved. The Governing Board meets once each year and is composed of Ministers in charge of EU integration of the participating economies and the SEE 2020 National Coordinators, with the other RCC participants from the region as observers.
- The recommendations of the Governing Board are translated into yearly programming priorities by the SEE 2020 Programming Committee that also initiates the annual programming cycle and recommends the agreed regional programmes for funding and implementation. The Programming Committee brings together the representatives of NIPACs and SEE 2020 National Coordinators. In order to maximise the effects of available donor assistance to regional programmes as well as to find possible solutions to the shortcomings, part of the annual programming cycle is also the structured dialogue with the development partners contributing to the SEE through donor coordination, which RCC has already initiated during the SWP 2014-2016 implementation.
- The overall process of monitoring the SEE 2020 Strategy is overseen by the SEE 2020 Monitoring Committee that also helps optimise the process, modifies the scope of monitoring as necessary, and reports to the SEE 2020 Governing Board on issues pertaining to monitoring and implementation of the SEE 2020 Strategy.
- As most of the regional interventions and actions related to the SEE 2020 Strategy are coordinated through the sectoral regional cooperation mechanisms – Regional Dimension Coordinators, or RDCs – the link for coordination between the governments in the region, the RCC and the RDCs is ensured by the SEE 2020 Coordination Board that brings together representatives of the aforementioned structures.

RCC supports and manages all of these governance mechanisms and the activities of these mechanisms are reported by the RCC Secretary General and approved by the RCC Board and the RCC Annual Meeting in the framework of the overall reporting of organisation's activities and of the implementation of the RCC's Strategy and Work Programme.

In line with the regional needs, the existing measures and policy recommendations, as well as with the priorities noted under the national strategic frameworks, RCC will implement the SEE 2020-related actions of the Strategy and Work Programme 2017-2019 through:

A.1 Skills and Mobility

This flagship initiative is designed to address some of the main constraints identified during the development of the SEE 2020 Strategy: the restricted mobility in the region; the underdeveloped skills base; the skills mismatch with the labour market needs; and the cumbersome recognition of professional qualifications. It is developed on the premise that the development of education and the improvement of labour force skills are key factors that will underpin future economic recovery, growth of the SEE economies and the restructuring towards knowledge driven economies.

The specific objective of the flagship is to:

- A.1.1 remove obstacles to intra-regional mobility of professionals and liberalisation of services through mutual recognition agreements of professional qualifications between the participating economies;
- A.1.2. facilitate mobility of people by developing standards and procedures for automatic recognition of education qualifications in line with the commitment made within the Bologna Process by 2019; and
- A.1.3. support development of employment, social and education policies within the framework of Economic Reform Programmes and SEE 2020 and strengthening the coordination and exchange between the authorities in charge of employment and social affairs policies and Public Employment Services in the region and with the EU Member States.

A.1.1 Removing obstacles to mobility of professionals in SEE

This action will directly address the priorities stipulated by the SEE 2020 on reducing the restrictiveness of free trade in services and facilitating the free movement of experts, professionals and skilled labour. Measures for smooth recognition of professional qualifications supporting mobility in SEE will also help governments meet the commitments outlined in Articles 26-29 of the CEFTA 2006 Agreement, and in particular support achieving the progressive liberalisation in trade in services and gradual opening of services markets across the region by reducing the barriers to temporary movement of natural persons.

In light of the multi-dimensional approach required to remove obstacles to recognition of professional qualifications three SEE 2020 Dimension Coordinators – Central European Free Trade Agreement Structures (CEFTA), Education Reform Initiative of South Eastern Europe (ERISEE) and Social Agenda Working Group (SAWG) have formed a Joint Working Group on Mutual Recognition of Professional Qualifications (JWGMRPQ) which operates under the auspices of RCC. The JWGMRPQ aims to create conditions for recognition of professional qualifications through facilitating conclusion of mutual recognition agreements (MRAs), works towards enhancing transparency of national and regional arrangements on recognition of professional qualifications, and aims to enhance regional data exchange on the mobility of professionals and future skills needs in selected professions.

In addition to establishing and managing the necessary structures, RCC has conducted preparatory work during 2016 to identify sectors and professions of mutual interest to the SEE 2020 economies where potential agreements on mutual recognition might be concluded. Between 2017 and 2019 negotiations on mutual recognition agreements in priority sectors and professions will be facilitated by RCC with the aim of concluding at least one agreement by the end of SWP's implementation.

A.1.2 Creating preconditions for automatic recognition in SEE

The activities in this area will facilitate the development of standards and procedures for automatic recognition of education qualifications in SEE in line with the commitments made by the Ministers responsible for higher education at the Ministerial Meeting in Bucharest and the work of the European Higher Education Area Pathfinder Group on Automatic Recognition<sup>18</sup>. Furthermore, the activities will take into account the principles set out in The Revised Recommendation on Criteria and Procedures for the Assessment of Foreign Qualifications adopted by the Lisbon Recognition Convention Committee in June 2010, ratified by all the SEE economies.

In cooperation with ERI SEE, working groups gathering the representatives of ministries responsible for higher education and ENIC/NARIC offices will be set up with an aim of developing a SEE network of ENIC/NARIC offices, shared information system on recognition of qualifications between SEE ENIC/NARIC offices, and standards and procedures for automatic recognition of qualifications in SEE to be confirmed by the Ministers responsible for higher education in SEE at a high-level conference in 2019.

A.1.3 Supporting development of employment, social and education policies and their streamlining into the economic governance process

In this area of work, RCC intends to contribute to the improvement of policy and institutional settings and outcomes in support of employment, human capital and social development. More specifically and in partnership with DG Employment, Social Affairs and Inclusion, RCC has established a structured regional Employment and Social Affairs Platform to support the processes for preparation, monitoring and follow-up of the employment and social component of the ERPs. Additionally, RCC is planning a number of interventions enhancing the capacities of the relevant administrations for improved policy outcomes and policy reviews related to the employment, human capital and social policies as well as strengthening the capacities and the existing Public Employment Services (PES) Network with a view to facilitating the SEE 2020 labour mobility objective and preparations for future participation in EURES.

<sup>18</sup> In particular the recommendations endorsed by the higher education ministers at the 14-15 May 2015 Bologna Process Ministerial Conference in Yerevan: 'to develop more effective policies for the recognition of credits gained abroad, of qualifications for academic and professional purposes, and of prior learning.'

A.1.4. Coordination and supporting activities

In addition to the above actions, RCC will cooperate with SEEHN to coordinate activities related to facilitation of trade liberalisation in health sector and engage in the issue of mobility of health provision across borders.

Collaborations in the Skills and Mobility flagship, in a longer time frame, would potentially be sought with MARRI on issues touching upon the wider migration framework with regards to institutionalising migration profiles in all SEE, strengthening regional cooperation and networking among migrant service centres, databases on migrant labour, one-stop service approach on residence and work permits, etc.

In addition, close collaborations will be pursued with EU institutions acting in the region in the policy areas identified as relevant for this flagship. These include ETF, CEDEFOP, EUROSTAT, all relevant EC services (chiefly DG EMPL, DG EAC, DG GROWTH, and DG HOME), as well as the EU's regional platforms for policy dialogue - Western Balkans Platform on Education and Training, and Employment and Social Reform Programmes (ESRP). The flagship initiative on skills and mobility aims to be the interface between these two platforms to initiate implementation of concrete measures.

Finally, the flagship's interventions will pursue synergies with the relevant activities of key international actors working in this area, including WB, ILO, UNDP, OECD, WTO, etc.

A.2 Connectivity

This flagship initiative is designed to address the non-physical challenges and the poor connectivity of the region within itself and with the rest of the continent. Poor inter-connectedness of the region's economies by road, rail, water, air, energy, and ICT networks adversely affects the growth of markets. The region will need to make substantial upgrades in its connectivity so as to widen access to markets and make the SEE private sectors and societies at large better integrated regionally and with the EU. The development of physical infrastructure should be in line with the environmental sustainability priorities and commitments, as per those defined by the EU accession process and the 2030 UN Agenda for Sustainable Development.

The Connectivity flagship aims to contribute to making the SEE better connected, integrated and more competitive, and enhance production and distribution networks. The specific objective of the RCC's work under the flagship is to:

- A.2.1 help convert the existing and planned transport corridors into vibrant economic corridors through mapping industries along the corridor routes, promoting their integration through regional clusters, and promoting and facilitating FDI along these corridors, while ensuring the environmental sustainability of actions as per the commitments made in the UN Agenda for Sustainable Development;
- A.2.2 address the limited interoperability of ICT systems in order to enable the deployment of region-wide and/or cross-border e-services, and reduce – and where possible eliminate – the roaming charges across the region.

A.2.1 Developing economic corridors in SEE

The work in this area will help put to optimal use the transport infrastructure and ensure greater returns from improved physical connectivity. Political support for the work has been extended and will be maintained throughout the next period, as confirmed also in Vienna Summit's Conclusions and by the RCC Board. RCC will implement the action in two main phases – diagnostic and operational.

During the diagnostic phase, RCC will produce an analysis on developing the economic corridor concept for SEE to investigate the prospects of a phased corridor development strategy, with initial emphasis on physical connectivity, followed by transport and trade facilitation, and eventual economic corridor development. In this respect, it will entail a situation analysis, i.e. a spatial, social and economic analysis of each corridor and its immediate surroundings (e.g. survey/inventory of economic agents and dynamics; overview of logistics and freight forwarding capacities and opportunities/hub potentials of key economic corridors; mapping of economic potentials, assets and industrial structures; trade and export composition; production, processing, market access, export capacities; assessment of agglomeration of industries, industrial inter-linkages; assessment of opportunities for enhanced cross border links in production, processing, marketing, etc.) all along the territory of the three core network corridors (Mediterranean, Orient-East and Rhine-Danube). Work in this area will build on the analysis already conducted during the previous SWP, such as the Western Balkans Inter-modal Assessment and the study on strengthening links between SEE and Turkey.

In the second phase, RCC will work with the participating governments to identify and develop policy instruments (e.g. cross-border economic zones, industrial parks, regional clusters, etc.) for operationalisation of the economic corridor concept. RCC will involve and utilise the institutional platforms/working groups on investments and industrial policy operating under the South East Europe Investment Committee (SEEIC), and will closely coordinate with SEETO and CEFTA structures, throughout the entire processes for developing and operationalising the economic corridors concept and embedding it in the national policy agendas.

A.2.2 Interoperability of ICT systems and reducing the roaming charges

In an effort to strengthen the legal basis and extend the geographic scope of the existing regional agreement on reduction of roaming charges, and in response to the mandate entrusted to RCC by the respective Ministers<sup>19</sup>, RCC will concentrate its efforts on improving the preconditions for long-term and viable implementation of the regional roaming agreement. In this respect, RCC's contribution will be focused on establishing conducive and inclusive frameworks which will be involved in the process of furthering the current roaming agreement, improving the legislative frameworks that underpin the agreement and delivering analysis to contribute to informed policy making and definition of future steps. In particular, RCC will develop a market impact study on the effects and future scope and prospects of the regional roaming agreement (improving market data evidence base, examining the current legislative aspects and praxis of the agreement and outlining recommendations/amendments needed, investigating the potential geographic expansion and further reduction/scraping of the tariffs in line with EU-level advances). In addition, RCC will establish an inclusive Roaming Platform (including line ministries, regulators and operators) to steer the process, follow up the elaboration of the study and implement the agreed recommendations by 2019. In this area of work, RCC will be partnering with the Electronic South East Europe Initiative (e-SEE).

A.2.3. Coordination and supporting activities

In addition to direct interventions under this flagship detailed above and the partners involved (CEFTA, SEETO, e-SEE), RCC will continue its supporting and coordination role in other areas as well.

RCC will maintain its cooperation with the Energy Community and its Secretariat regarding enhanced connectivity in energy area leading to integration of power systems, improvement and diversification of gas supply, as well as to the creation of a regional energy market with increased energy security at more affordable prices.

A sustainable approach to connectivity takes into consideration the need to mitigate detrimental environmental impacts of infrastructural interventions and enhanced transport/energy movements. Introduction of climate proofing standards in legislation, planning, engineering and construction is seen as the principal disaster risk adaptation to climate change hazards in the SEE region. Crucial partners for the RCC in this area will be the Regional Working Group on Environment operating under the RCC auspices, Regional Environmental Center (REC), Global Water Partnership Mediterranean and Standing Working Group for Regional Rural Development, all working towards implementation of SEE 2020 goals in the Environmental dimension. Possible joint activities in the area of sector climate change and infrastructure have also been identified with the United Nations Environment Program (UNEP).

A.3 Competitiveness

Increasing competitiveness and supporting industrial development of the region is the direct underlying assumption of eight of the eleven targets of SEE 2020 Strategy. Most of the interventions under this flagship will therefore focus on strengthening the region's industrial base, encouraging creation and growth of enterprises, improving conditions for investment, enhancing the region's innovation performance and increasing its share of international trade. Other interventions will aim at establishing the conditions that maximise SEE's attractiveness as a destination for new investment, as well as raise productivity through greater openness to talent, capital and innovation.

More specifically, this flagship initiative aims to:

- A.3.1 improve the investment environment in the region by putting in place a regional investment reform agenda seeking to harmonise the rules for investment entry, treatment, and mutual protections across the region and complement the free trade agenda already in place; formalise this investment reform agenda in the best possible manner by establishing a regional investment instrument among the participating economies either by upgrading the existing legal base or establishing a new one, subject to decision of the participating economies;
- A.3.2 strengthen the industrial base through sectoral work (currently in the area of tourism and food and beverage processing) to facilitate development of regional value chains and their integration in European and global value chains, and horizontal approaches to help develop coordinated industrial development strategies in line with the EU's industrial development initiatives.

A.3.1 Improving the investment environment

In this area, the focus of the RCC's activities for the upcoming three-year period will be to further integrate and enhance the investment environment in the region, particularly in areas pertaining to investor entry, mutual protection and incentive schemes. RCC will work towards harmonising the approaches to investment through an agreed regional investment instrument among the economies. This activity will be conducted through a structured regional dialogue of the involved economies, supported by the private sector and relevant regional and international partners. Joint Working Group on Investment has already been set up and the Ministers in charge of investment have already mandated the RCC to explore the possible legal basis for the regional instrument<sup>20</sup>.

To support these activities, the RCC and CEFTA intend to engage with the World Bank in this area to solicit support and technical assistance in investment policy-related activities that would back the overall process, and this assistance should become available through an EU-funded action during 2017. In addition to facilitating and managing the process, RCC will also be providing specific analysis and assistance to the process with a view of agreeing a regional investment instrument by 2019.

A.3.2 Developing the industrial base

Furthermore, the RCC will focus on the improvement of the industrial base in the region, namely through support to the design and implementation of regional approaches to industrial development, and with direct support to the current priority sectors by promoting their internationalisation, FDI attraction through targeted investment promotion activities, and addressing main barriers hindering not only the development of these sectors per se but also creation of the regional value chains. These activities are included in the flagship with the objective of seeking relevant synergies and interdependencies in a coordinated process of programming and implementation among the involved stakeholders.

The efforts will focus on promoting regional dialogue among the SEE economies and information exchange on economic transformation and diversification as well as on effective industrial policy design. While an important objective is to improve existing and introduce new policy instruments to expand production base, the industrial policy is not limited only to manufacturing. Concepts will be developed in close coordination with the Connectivity flagship to upgrade the existing transport and develop the so-called economic corridors while exploring the possibilities of creating regional clusters, and promote establishment of special economic zones. Industrial policy structure will also address issues related to the priority sectors and those related to SME development and entrepreneurship.

A.3.3 Coordinating and supporting activities

In addition to the RCC's South East Europe Investment Committee (SEEIC) which sits firmly at the centre of RCC's activities in this area, RCC cooperates closely with other SEE 2020 Regional Dimension Coordinators in order to ensure implementation of the specific SEE 2020 priorities, such as CEFTA (Trade Policy), SEECCEL (SME and Entrepreneurship), WISE (Innovation Policy), TFCS (Cultural Tourism) and SWG-RRD (Agriculture).

SEEIC is also supported through the cooperation with other international and regional partner organisations related to SEE 2020 such as with OECD, the World Bank (Investment Policy), the ETF (Entrepreneurship – related to skills) UNCTAD (investment) and others, as well as the business sector representatives which are present in its technical bodies.

B. GOVERNANCE, RULE OF LAW AND SECURITY COOPERATION

As core part of the European Commission's Enlargement Strategy "fundamentals first" approach, good governance and rule of law related reforms are sensitive issues for which SEE economies are working closely with the European Commission in bilateral formats; but their progress can be supported through regional cooperation.

The main objective of RCC's engagement in these areas is to support the SEE economies in implementing the related reforms to improve governance effectiveness and practices, establish consolidated public administrations, enhance the efficiency of judiciary, reduce corruption, enhance the fight against serious and organised crime, as well as facilitate practical regional and cross-border cooperation to these effects. Particularly the fight against serious and organised crime, the fight against corruption and the regional cooperation in security related matters are of critical importance and interest for governments and stakeholders from the wider SEE region and beyond. RCC will use this opportunity to broaden the geographical scope of regional cooperation with all interested governments and stakeholders.

The actions supporting the reforms in the areas of governance and judiciary will promote (i) simple and more effective legislation; (ii) more efficient and transparent public administration services; and (iii) will introduce and reinforce a regional instrument – or a network of bilateral instruments - on data exchange in asset disclosure and conflict of interest. In the area of the fight against serious and organised crime, RCC will draw on the Gap Analysis on Regional Cooperation in the Area of Migration Management and the Fight against Serious and Organised Crime<sup>21</sup> conducted during the previous SWP and assist cooperation between law enforcement agencies, also through the existing regional mechanisms.

The enhanced cooperation – particularly in the area of justice, anti-corruption, fight against serious and organised crime and security cooperation - will contribute to building mutual trust and improving cross-border cooperation. It will also enhance the capacities to confront the recent security challenges in the region and support the SEE enlargement economies to better prepare for the EU accession negotiation of Chapters 23 and 24.

<sup>21</sup> <http://www.rcc.int/docs/366/report-on-gap-analysis-on-regional-cooperation-in-the-area-of-migration-management-and-fight-against-serious-and-organised-crime>

B.1 Public Administration Reform

The main objective of RCC's actions in this area is to support strengthening governance, improving administration's capacity, and increasing transparency at all stages of the policy cycle, from agenda setting, through policy design and formulation, to decision-making and evaluation.

The specific objectives in this area are to:

B.1.1 improve the regulatory framework for competitiveness and growth;

B.1.2 promote the development of e-services in public administration.

B.1.1 Improving the regulatory framework

The interventions planned and implemented jointly by RCC and ReSPA will specifically aim at a better regulation framework for competitiveness and growth through introduction and implementation of competitiveness proofing of legislation. It will also aim at strengthening the professional criteria for enrolment in public administration institutions, increasing transparency and information exchange.

To this aim, RCC will closely coordinate with the Regional School of Public Administration (ReSPA) as the main regional interlocutor in this area on developing the assessment and methodologies, their dissemination and consultation with the governments, supporting the existing or establishing new public-private sector dialogues on regulatory reform and capacity building on competitiveness proofing of legislation and cutting red tape. EBRD and USAID could be possible partners for RCC in this area as both are working on separate initiatives to establish effective and efficient public-private sector dialogues in the Western Balkans economies.

Following the principle of subsidiarity, important parts of the aforementioned actions will be implemented at the local level. The coordination with the Network of Associations of Local Authorities (NALAS) will complement RCC's work with government authorities at central level.

B.1.2 Promotion and development of e-services

Building on previous experiences also in the SEE region, RCC will work with governments in the region and with development partners on developing interoperable e-services to increase transparency and promote better exchange of information in areas relevant for doing business (e-customs, e-procurement, one-stop-shops for mobility and migration, municipal e-permitting systems, etc.). Potential partner in this area is the GIZ Open Regional Funds (ORF) already engaged in developing municipal e-services (such as e-permitting systems for constructions) in some Western Balkans participants.

B.2 Justice

The main objective in this area is to contribute and support the SEE economies implement reforms aiming to improve the efficiency, integrity, accountability and independence of judiciary, as well as to improve the legal framework for regional judicial cooperation.

The judicial reform is strictly an internal matter of the individual economies, dealt directly with the European Commission in the framework of the EU approximation process.

Nevertheless, the success of those reforms is helped by peer support, regional networking and capacity building through exchange of information and regionally organised trainings.

The specific objectives to be achieved in this area through a number of capacity building measures, peer support and networking at domestic and at regional level are:

- B.2.1 enhance mutual legal assistance between judiciaries in the region;
- B.2.2 create the platform/network of judicial training institutions in SEE to support capacity building measures of judges and prosecutors;
- B.2.3 reduce court backlogs in the region.

B.2.1 Enhance mutual legal assistance

RCC will work with the governments in the region to establish a regional instrument – or a network of bilateral instruments – enabling and/or enhancing the legal assistance between the judiciaries in the region, as well as enabling cross-border enforcement of the decisions and contracts in civil and commercial law, in full respect of the principle of reciprocity. Cooperation in this area has already been initiated during the previous SWP in partnership with GIZ ORF and is intended to continue in the next period, with the conclusion of at least one regional agreement on legal assistance by 2019.

B.2.2 Create the platform/network of the judicial training institutions

Under the already operational Regional Working Group on Justice, the RCC will establish the SEE Judicial Training Institutions Network (SEE JTI Network) as a platform for integrated legal education in the region. It will enable peer support in matters related to training of judges and prosecutors and generate a better understanding of the different judicial systems in the region, challenges they are facing and the way they are addressed.

The SEE JTI Network will be developed in partnership with GIZ and SEELS. The RCC will also link the newly established Network to similar networks and institutions in Europe (EJTN, ERA, EIPA, CoE, OSCE, etc.) and will support the improvement of mutual communication and cooperation.

B.2.3 Reduce the court backlog / establishment of the regional network of mediators

As a follow-up of the work done during the implementation of the previous SWP, RCC will support the governments in the region to implement the agreed recommendations on reducing the outstanding court backlog in the region by using mediation as an alternative solution. In order to increase the efficiency of this solution, RCC will establish and support the operation of the network of mediators in SEE, as a platform to exchange information and support cross-border mediation. The establishment and operation of this network will be coordinated by the RCC's Regional Working Group on Justice.

B.3 Anticorruption

Aiming to curb corruption in the region, the main objectives of RCC's activities in the area of anti-corruption will be to:

- B.3.1 increase transparency and public awareness of corruption and strengthen protections for whistleblowers; and
- B.3.2 set up a regional platform for assistance in asset disclosure and recovery, as well as on identification of conflict of interest.

B.3.1 Increase transparency and awareness of corruption and strengthen whistleblowers protections

The interventions and activities targeting increased transparency will be coordinated with the Regional Anticorruption Initiative (RAI), as the region's leader in promoting transparency and fight against corruption, as part of a wider regional anticorruption agenda. The RCC/RAI coordinated interventions will contribute to more transparent administrative rules and moving away from discretion to rule-based political and decision-making through the implementation of recommendations contained in the assessment of corruption proofing of legislation and corruption risk assessment in public administrations, already finalised during the implementation of the previous SWP.

Transparency of the public procurement rules and avoidance of conflict of interest will be another area of engagement of RCC in cooperation with ReSPA and GIZ ORF.

RCC's and RAI's work with the civil society and all other stakeholders against corruption and the protection of whistleblowers would contribute to a more efficient civil society organisations engagement in this area. RCC and RAI will jointly support their efforts to engage in public debate and influence policy and decision-making process in the area of anti-corruption and good governance.

B.3.2 Set up a regional platform for assistance in asset disclosure and recovery

The RCC will establish a regional network of specialised agencies to support the identification and resolution of conflict of interest and asset disclosure/recovery. It would enable enhanced cooperation between specialised agencies for verification of asset declarations and conflict of interest not only for sharing the experience but also for exchanging information. This mechanism would be also useful for the successful fight against serious and organised crime.

The RCC will streamline and enhance cooperation among the existing networks in anticorruption and home affairs in the region so as to make the best possible use of this mechanism.

B.4 The fight against serious and organised crime

The findings of the Gap Analysis on Regional Cooperation in the Area of Migration Management and the Fight against Serious and Organised Crime will constitute the grounds for addressing the issues related to this very sensitive area, also beyond the SEE region.

RCC will work to translate the identified cooperation deficiencies into tools and instruments that, if implemented, would contribute to better and more efficient bilateral, cross-border and regional cooperation, including - but not limited to - exchange of information, intelligence, judicial support and joint operations between the law enforcement agencies in the SEE region.

The challenges posed by the serious and organised criminality in the region call for better cooperation at all levels and for expanding the geographical scope of cooperation beyond the SEE. The existing regional cooperation platforms and mechanisms - such as SELEC, SEEPAG, SEPCA, and PCC SEE - have already provided for such broadened cooperation. The RCC will continue to support these regional cooperation mechanisms and to coordinate organisation's interventions with them, and it will explore other possibilities for enhanced regional cooperation in a broadened geographical scope. In this view, the RCC will continue to work also with UNODC, INTERPOL, EUROPOL, EUROJUST and the CoE.

B.5 Security cooperation

RCC's interventions in the area of security cooperation will be twofold:

- B.5.1 maintaining support and strengthening coordination of the existing regional cooperation in the area of security, and
- B.5.2 addressing the emerging security challenges in the region.

B.5.1 Supporting the existing security cooperation mechanisms in SEE

The RCC will continue its direct engagement and coordination role in regional security cooperation, resulting in increased mutual trust and practical cooperation among the regional participants. In this context, the specialised RCC-led regional security cooperation formats, such as SEEMIC (South East Europe Military Intelligence Chiefs' Forum) and SEENSA (South East Europe National Authority Chiefs' Forum) will continue to be used as confidence building mechanisms and networking frameworks, but even more so as tools for effective and timely exchange of information relevant for national, regional, and European security. The advantage of these two cooperation formats is that they bring together participants from the wider SEE region.

Regional cooperation in natural and manmade disasters will be strengthened in the period 2017-2019. In this respect the RCC will encourage cooperation of national authorities, effective use of European and wider disaster response mechanisms such as EADRCC (Euro-Atlantic Disaster Response Coordination Centre), and strengthening the SEE DPPI (SEE Disaster Preparedness and Prevention Initiative).

In a broader perspective, a timely identification of major security trends in the region will be necessary, particularly to enhance formulation and fulfilment of effective and coordinated regional and national responses to the traditional and emerging security challenges. RCC will work to identify and explore effective ways to address the gaps and unnecessary overlapping in regional security cooperation.

B.5.2 Addressing the emerging security challenges in the region

Development and implementation of effective and coordinated regional and national response to radicalisation and violent extremism leading to terrorism and recruitment of foreign terrorist fighters will be one of the most important regional security priorities. The RCC will play a major role, both directly, through the actions it will organise and lead, and as a coordinator of efforts in the region, first and foremost through the functioning of the SEE Group of National Focal Points for countering violent extremism under the RCC auspices. This is also a cooperation platform that includes all RCC participants from SEE.

Illegal migration and trafficking in human beings have always been a security challenge. However, the massive migration crisis, with hundreds of thousands of refugees and illegal migrants flooding large parts of SEE in 2015 only, took the problem to a hitherto unprecedented level. The problem is common and requires common regional response. In the forthcoming period, in the coordination of the existing efforts, the RCC will provide support through political dialogue and practical cooperation.

Continuous engagement of the region in general and the RCC in particular in the broader European, Euro-Atlantic and global security context will be done through consultations and cooperation with the UN and its specialised agencies, the EU, NATO, OSCE, and other relevant actors.

C. HORIZONTAL AND SUPPORTING ACTIVITIES

In the next period, along with the interventions in specific sectoral areas, RCC will continue to perform its general/horizontal functions within its mandate. The activities in this area will be grouped along the three main intervention areas:

- C.1 strengthening cooperation between the SEE governments and with the EU;
- C.2 supporting and streamlining regional cooperation structures;
- C.3 broadening links and strengthening partnerships with other regional stakeholders.

C.1 Strengthening cooperation between the SEE governments

As the operational arm of SEECF, RCC will continue to closely cooperate with the SEECF CiO to translate political guidance into operational plans and execute a number of general functions in line with its mandate. The synergy between RCC and SEECF will continue to advance, in particular through the coordination meetings between the SEECF Troika, the RCC Secretariat and representatives of the European Union. The coordination meetings, co-chaired by the RCC Secretary General and the SEECF CiO, will continue to be convened, back-to-back to the RCC Board meetings, with the aim of reviewing regional developments in SEE, coordinating efforts around shared regional priorities and exchanging views and discussing the most pressing challenges of the region. The RCC Secretariat will continue to provide expertise and technical support to political and sectorial events to be organised by the SEECF CiO; it will initiate and engage in actions that increase the visibility of RCC and SEECF and will actively contribute to the implementation of activities shared both by the SEECF CiOs' programmes and RCC SWP 2017-2019. The RCC Secretariat will assist the SEECF CiO in the preparation and implementation of decisions of the SEECF Summits and ministerial meetings.

RCC will continue its dialogue with the EU institutions, through regular consultations with high-level representatives of the European Union (EC, EEAS, EP), in order to associate the work of RCC more closely with the EU enlargement agenda. Regular consultations of the RCC Secretary General with the RCC participants from and outside the region will ensure support for the implementation of the SWP 2017-2019 and that regional cooperation remains on the mainstream political agenda in the RCC participants. The RCC will be actively engaged in representing the region at international and regional fora and promoting the European and Euro-Atlantic integration perspective of SEE, as well as it will work closely with the SEECF-CiO to increase the international profile of both RCC and SEECF.

RCC will contribute to the partnerships for implementation of the 2030 UN Agenda for Sustainable Development and SDGs in SEE region building on the priorities of EU enlargement agenda.

RCC will contribute to those themes of the Berlin Process that are within its mandate and are included in the Strategy and Work Programme 2017-2019, as it will work to build synergies and coordinate efforts in developing joint actions devoted to the region with the EUSDR and EUSAIR, as well as with regional organisations and initiatives.

The RCC will support and contribute to an effective functioning of the SEECF PA, including by keeping the SEECF PA abreast on the most important activities of the RCC and contributing to work of the General Committees of the SEECF PA.

The RCC will continue supporting the Conference of the European Integration Parliamentary Committees of States participating in the Stabilisation and Association Process (Western Balkans COSAP). The RCC will participate in the promotion and strengthening of cooperation between the committees of national parliaments dealing with European affairs, taking into consideration the role and activities of COSAP related to the EU enlargement process. Upholding and nurturing a close cooperation with the European Parliament will further be in focus of the RCC.

C.2 Supporting and streamlining regional cooperation structures

The RCC will continue to provide political guidance, monitoring and support to the relevant regional initiatives, task forces and organisations active in specific areas of regional cooperation in SEE.

The SWP 2014-2016 and the SEE 2020 Strategy development and implementation have helped RCC to identify and establish working relationship with those regional cooperation mechanisms that are active in the areas relevant to the implementation of the RCC mission, that have a clear mandate, are properly resourced, have adequate governance structures, are able to secure political commitments and that have a positive implementation track record. The RCC will further enhance its relations with individual regional mechanisms and organisations relevant for the implementation of the SWP 2017-2019, including by formalising the relationships within Memoranda of Understanding, where appropriate. Therefore this SWP should be also seen as a step towards further streamlining of regional cooperation in SEE.

C.3 Broadening links and strengthening partnerships with other regional stakeholders

During the SWP implementation, RCC will need to ensure support for various regional instruments and national reforms beyond just the participating governments. This means that a more structured dialogue will be necessary with a number of stakeholders with clear interests in the process.

The private sector representatives have already been included in numerous RCC's activities, from its sectoral work to more general discussions on various policy areas, including trade, investment, industrial policy and others. However, this coordination will need to pick up speed over the next period and become more structured as the private sector will need to be consulted on a number of policy processes during the next three years. In this area of activity, RCC intends to set up a platform for the private sector and governments to come together regionally and consult on the main development challenges facing the region. RCC will involve private sector representatives from all RCC participants.

Similarly, a more structured dialogue with the civil society will be needed. While engaged in RCC's work on an ad-hoc basis, the CSOs will need to be consulted in a more structured manner. RCC intends to set up a continuous dialogue with the CSO's involving the appropriate CSO representatives in most areas of its work to ensure a broad base of support for the reform initiatives put forward by this SWP.

Cooperation with the development partners and donors will continue in the next period as well. RCC will host both the donor coordination database and the annual donor coordination meetings to ensure that there is an adequate exchange of information on the regional donor interventions and the development needs and priorities of the region.

Finally, RCC's engagement with the region's media will also continue in the next period. There is a growing concern regarding deterioration of media freedoms and the position of media in the SEE societies and RCC intends to continue bringing together media representatives from SEE to raise awareness on the main challenges and help develop capacities of journalists and media organisations.

Specific initiatives, such as the Roma Integration 2020, will be implemented under this area of intervention. The Roma Integration 2020 initiative, a programme funded by the EU and the Open Society Foundations, is designed to assist the governments of seven IPA II beneficiaries to integrate Roma-specific policy measures into the mainstream socio-economic policies, national budget planning and public service delivery.

CONSTRAINTS, RISKS AND CHALLENGES TO IMPLEMENTATION

Political commitment and support of national authorities will be a key factor for the successful implementation of the Strategy. Therefore, the RCC will continue to work closely with all interested partners and stakeholders so as to enable participation in regional processes of government representatives with adequate level of participation, with the required expertise and proper mandate.

On the other hand, insufficient institutional capacities and limited intragovernmental coordination are factors that could adversely affect the successful implementation of the Strategy in several priority areas, particularly in those where the implementation is coordinated by regional cooperation mechanism that have not reached a proper maturity and/or suffer from lack of resources.

As with the implementation of the SWP 2014-2016, the availability of adequate and timely disbursed financial resources will continue to be a significant constraint. As bilateral donors have a significant role to play, the RCC will take a more proactive approach to the donor community and development partners active in the region to try to alleviate – at least partially – the scarcity of financial resources, as well as the difficulties arising from the varied donor approaches, their differing geographical scope and the different timing of programming and contracting cycles.

The EU programmes that are open to enlargement region are another possible source of funding. However, several of the EU programmes limit the amount of funding available for the enlargement region and in some cases the technical, managerial or financial capacity of SEE economies have been constrained to meet the eligibility criteria.
