6. ANTI-DISCRIMINATION AND GENDER EQUALITY

- measures that were designed to support the fight against anti-Roma discrimination and racism

During the year of 2013, the Commission for Protection against Discrimination worked actively on the received complaints on various grounds of discrimination. Upon determining the factual situation concerning the discrimination, the Commission gave opinion with recommendations on the manner of removing the discriminatory action. Some of the received complaints the Commission worked on related to discrimination on grounds of Roma ethnicity.

Project – Best practices for Roma integration

The Commission for Protection against Discrimination also participated in the implementation of the “Best practices for Roma integration” project—a regional project financed by the European Union, supported by OSCE and implemented by the Office for Democratic Institutions and Human Rights (ODIHR). One of the project activities is providing technical support to the Commission for Protection against Discrimination of the Republic of Macedonia.

About ten informative workshops and roundtable discussions took place throughout the Republic of Macedonia as part of this activity, mainly in cooperation with Roma non-governmental organizations, or participants from the Roma community as well as from other communities. These workshops were realized with the purpose of raising the awareness of the Roma community about the existence of the legislation, especially the Law on Prevention and Protection against Discrimination, as well as the special bodies for combating discrimination, such as the Commission for Protection against Discrimination and becoming closely informed about the role and competences thereof.

- measures that were designed to support gender equality between Roma women and men

More than 20 workshops intended for young persons from the smaller ethnic communities, which is the case with the Roma community in several municipalities, were held in cooperation with the International Organization for Migrations (four workshops were intended for young Roma men and women). proceedings for exercising the right to equal treatment on grounds of gender and the right to protection against discrimination. In this respect, a short handbook was printed as part of this project, which handbook is intended to help the non-governmental organizations should they get involved in such cases. Furthermore, a Guidebook in which the methodology of the training on equal treatment is presented was also printed as part of the project.

In the past period, the National Action Plans for enhancements of the social status of Roma women in the Republic of Macedonia were prepared and implemented, as an obligation deriving from the Strategy for the Roma for the year of 2005, in which the specific needs of Roma women were one of the priorities, whilst at the same time constituting an affirmative measure aimed at improving the status of Roma women in the society.

Given that the needs of Roma women have a certain specificity due to the traditional and cultural norms, the activities that were covered by the National Action Plan for enhancement of the social status of Roma women have been integrated in several strategic documents, such as: the Revised Strategy for the Roma (currently in draft version), the National Strategy for Gender Equality, and the National Strategy for Equality and Non-discrimination. In the period to come, the activities concerning Roma women will be conducted under the aforementioned strategic documents.
